

There are two way of entering new paragraph. One way is entering new one or more blank lines in code.

The paragraph is justified by default. So we do not need to use any command for this purpose. For instance, this short paragraph is justified. To check it, see the left and right margin.

This text is right aligned. What happen to this sample text?

This text is right aligned. What happen to this sample text?

This text is right aligned. What happen to this sample text?

This text is right aligned. What happen to this sample text?

This text is right aligned . What happen to this sample text?

This text is right aligned. What happen to this sample text?

Another way is using command like this example. Notice that there is an automatically in indent in every new paragraph.

This text is centered. What happen to this sample text? This text is centered. What happen to this sample text? This text is centered. What happen to this sample text? This text is centered. What happen to this sample text? This text is centered. What happen to this sample text? This text is centered. What happen to this sample text?